

Choosing child care is one of the most important decisions you will make for your child.

A good child care setting can have a positive impact on the development of your child.

Remember, it is up to you to choose care for your child. When you have found a program that meets your family's and child's needs, stay involved, ask questions, and talk with your care giver each day about your child.

STEP 1

- Community Organizations
- Schools and Universities
- Head Start Programs
- Yellow Pages
- Physicians

Child Care Resource Development Centers

The Department of Health and Human Services funds and contracts with a system of child care resource and referral centers, which, in Maine are called Resource Development Centers (RDCs). These agencies make referrals to parents seeking child care and provide information on financial assistance. They make referrals, when possible, to ten child care facilities. There is no fee for this basic service. Early in your search for child care, a visit or call to one of these sites could be most helpful. See the list on pages 10-11.

STEP TWO

Phone ahead and ask questions

Do you have an opening?

What days and hours is care available?

What ages of children are accepted?

What is the group size? Number of care givers?

Can I visit anytime?

What is the cost?

What is included in the cost? (For example, meals, diapers, etc.)

Do I pay when my child does not attend?

How are fees charged? Hourly, weekly?

Can I get child care on holidays and vacation days?

Is there any financial assistance available?

Is the program licensed or certified?

Does the program have a Quality Certificate?

What kind of insurance do you carry?

What is your policy for dealing with sick children?

Are meals and snacks provided?

Are parents asked to do things for the program?

Are there regular parent conferences/meetings?

STEP THREE

Choose at least three places that seem to fit your needs. Make an appointment to visit each one with your child, if possible.

STEP FOUR

Use this checklist when you visit. These are things to notice and questions to ask. You may want to ask some or all of the questions. You may have questions of your own.

Physical Space/Health and Safety

Where your child is cared for needs to be safe and healthy. Rules should be in place about illness.

Relationship Between the Care Giver and the Children

A positive and loving relationship between the care giver and the children is very important. In addition, the relationship between the care giver and the parent is also critical. Parents should choose a care giver whose style and attitudes are similar to their own.

STEP FIVE

Putting it together

- Check references.
- Talk with parents of other children in the program.
- Trust your feelings.
- Make sure you have an agreement with your care giver about services provided, hours, rules, vacation days, cost and payment - for example, if child does not attend.
- When you have found the right program for your child, stay involved, visit often, talk with the care giver and ask your child what the day was like.
- As your child changes and grows, your child care needs may also change.
- Just remember that a license or a certificate as a child care facility only sets minimum standards – it does not guarantee quality.
- Call the Child Care Licensing Unit at 287-5060 to obtain a copy of current regulations.
- Call the Child Care Licensing Unit at 287-5060 to inquire if any complaints have been lodged against the care givers you are considering. This is public information.

STEP SIX

Start Out on the Right Step

- Now that you have made your choice of child care, these are things you need to share with your caregiver:
- Child's immunization records showing most recent immunizations.
- Information required for your child's record.
- Emergency phone numbers.
- Any helpful information about your child, such as likes and dislikes.

THE FOLLOWING CHILD CARE OPTIONS ARE AVAILABLE IN MAINE

Child Care Centers - Facilities where 13 or more children ages 6 weeks to 13 years may be cared for on a regular or part-time basis. These facilities are required to be licensed by the Maine Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) and must meet minimum requirements concerning health and safety. Centers are subject to biannual inspections by a State Fire Marshal as well as annual review by the DHHS Licensing Unit.

Certified Family Day Care Homes - Facilities in which 3 to 12 children, not related to the care giver, ages 6 weeks to 13 years may receive regular or part-time care. They must meet minimum health and safety requirements, and are inspected bi-annually by a State Fire Marshal and annually by a DHHS Licensing Worker.

Legal Unlicensed Family Day Care – Homes in which only one or two children, not related to the care giver, are cared for without a license.

School-Age Child Care – Care provided for children ages 5-16 during non-school hours. It is available in a variety of settings: schools, community centers, Y's, religious organizations, child care centers, and family day care homes. These programs must comply with DHHS regulations.

In-Home Care - A relative, friend or someone else that you hire to care for your child in your home. This option is not regulated.

OTHER OPTIONS

Nursery Schools - Facilities for 3 or more children between the ages of 3 and 7 that provide half-day care, not including kindergarten programs. Parents often combine these programs with other types of child care to create a full-day child care "package." Nursery schools must be licensed by DHHS and meet minimum standards.

Head Start - This program offers educational programs to low-income preschool children including children with special needs. Other important services such as medical, dental, educational, mental health and social services are also offered.

Most programs also have child care services to create a full day program.
